

I wish to voice my concern over anything that might lessen the effectiveness of Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. Before the law I was constantly receiving calls from "pushy" telemarketers, sometimes as many as five a night. Today I get no calls. My time is not something that salespeople have a right to squander -- nor should I have to pay extra money for Ameritech's Privacy Manager to deal with it. Indiana's law works exceptionally well. Do nothing to water it down.
